GRAND ARMY IS ON WATCH.

Veterans May Shun This City If Harriman Wins.

National Encampment Depends on Result.

First to Socialist City Is "Abhorrent," Says One.

100,000 WIRE TO THE TIMES] (Excluding National) Los Angeles is in demand of local men for national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in spite of the fact that the Republican encampment almost unanimously voted it there.

If Los Angeles picks a Socialist Mayor backed by a Council and other members of the same faith, there will be a move made to change the place of meeting.

Ever since the nomination of Harriman, the Socialist candidate for Mayor, there has been serious thought on the part of many of the Grand Army men that are in the habit of attending National Encampments that they do not care to go to a city as morally as those citizens who have elected an admiral captain consisting of men who are opposed to so many things that the veterans of the Civil War are radically in favor of.

Admiral J. A. Watrous, head of the Royal Legion in Wisconsin, said:

In summing up the situation, I do not want the public to think that we former soldiers are bigoted, intolerant and too hard to please, but I have seen many others with whom have versed and others with whom opinions are familiar, that we do not care to go to a national encampment in a city where people voluntarily selected to administer the affairs of their city are openly contemptuous of the Constitution of the United States. We care not for the rights of any man, nothing to do with the people, a class of citizens who lose our opportunity to condemn the National Guard and give their people to understand that they are enforcers of the principles of their party, enforcers of the principles of the regular army and navy, men who stand by a platform that pronounces bitter opposition to the organization of labor.

In short, who are in the contractors of our present form of national and State governments, and who constantly seek at and make war on all of our country from the highest to the lowest.

"I can say that I speak for myself and tens of thousands of others when I tell you that we do not care to spend a week as the guests of such a city. We are going to go to another, and voted by many majorities to do so, but if Los Angeles sets fit to turn itself over to the control of the organization of socialists, the thought of going there will be abhorrent."

John H. Walsh Estate is Worth Eight Hundred Thousand, and All Goes to His Widow.

100,000 WIRE TO THE TIMES]

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch] An estate valued at $1,000,000 was left by John H. Walsh, and his wife is the sole beneficiary. The fact that he possessed so much property, after all the misfortunes which beset him during the last years of his life, was a surprise to nearly every one who was not the beneficiary's confidence. In the height of his career he was worth $15,000,000.

In the petition which was filed with the will in the Probate Court this afternoon by George T. Buckingham, attorney for the widow, it was stated that the will is set forth. Mrs. Mary Walsh, the widow, is made sole executrix, and she is not required to give a bond. This will was drawn on October 2, 1908, and the witnesses were E. C. Miller, now dead, and William T. Abbott.

Champion Women Spendthrift Marries Money and Prospects Improve for a New Stream of Dollars.

100,000 WIRE TO THE TIMES]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch] Along Broadway today the tidings were spread that Mrs. C. Hooper Thaw, once known as "the champion woman" spendthrift of New York, has become the bride in Philadelphia of Charles S. Hickman, a well-known clubman, who was divorced only three weeks ago. He is wealthy and was formerly a member of the Thomas Woolsey Home Co., a well-known manufacturer.

"I hope she comes back" was the question asked on Broadway, and there were many who hoped she would, for, during her career on the Great White Way, the former Mrs. Thaw, who collected $100,000 in alimony and the remainder was frisked away in Wall Street, at the race tracks and pawn jewelry. Before she married Thaw the Mrs. Prance Rush, a showgirl. After she had spent her fortune, she was sent to Chicago in a cage for $75, which she could not pay.

Mrs. Patterson shot her husband while they were walking together in Lincoln Park on the morning of September 21, 1910. She had given her son and her two step-sisters promises to make the trial one of the most closely watched in the recent history of the Denver courts.

INVITED, GOT THERE LATE.

Three Sovereign Citizens of Kansas Say They Were Not at the "Tax Party."

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES)

LINCOLN CENTER (Kan.) Nov. 17.—A jury to try Sheriff Clark A. N. Simms and John Schmidt for assault and battery in connection with the tarring of Miss Mary Chamberlain probably will be secured tomorrow. Today's session was spent in examining testimony that they do not care to go to a city as morally as those citizens who have elected an admiral captain consisting of men who are opposed to so many things that the veterans of the Civil War are radically in favor of.

Admiral J. A. Watrous, head of the Royal Legion in Wisconsin, said:

"I do not want the public to think that we former soldiers are bigoted, intolerant and too hard to please, but I have seen many others with whom have versed and others with whom opinions are familiar, that we do not care to go to a city as morally as those citizens who have elected an admiral captain consisting of men who are opposed to so many things that the veterans of the Civil War are radically in favor of."

To prevent Miss Chamberlain from relating her experiences to the jury, the accused men have announced they will prove that they were not present at the tax party; that Miss Chamberlain testified that she and Ed McLeod, the barber who lured her to the scene of the tarring, met the three men now on trial coming up the road after the tarring was over.

The defendants declare this makes being an accessory the only charge that can be placed against them.

The rich Chinese, with their precious possessions, clung to the available vessels near down the river, and it was but chance and good luck that forty of us white men were able to secure passage on a German freighter, the steamer Beigrave.

The Chinese tried to force their way aboard the steamer and were only held back by the officers and crew, who stood at the gang-plank with drawn revolvers and rifles.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch] An estate valued at $1,000,000 was left by John H. Walsh, and his wife is the sole beneficiary.

The testimony of Francis McNeill, a witness put on the stand by the prosecution, was seized upon by the defense to corroborate their side of the case today. McNeill said that when he first passed by the station two months ago, the station was empty, and a man lying on the top of the couch, but did not see anyone standing up, thus bearing out the contention of the defense that Fleming was not in the car roof when he was taken.

A. Ross testified he saw Fleming remove the boy from the couch and witnessed nothing rough in Fleming's handling of the boy until at one point Fleming went to the car roof to pull them from the car roof to the ground. Ross said he cried out to Fleming not to throw them off.

The case was adjourned until Monday, when it is expected the prosecution will complete its case.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES)

SAN JOSE (Cal.) Nov. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch] Along Serio, 17 years old, and a typical Italian beauty, went to a convent today from the Juvenile Court, declaring she would rather be a nun than be coerced into a marital alliance with a man many years her senior, and whom she does not love.

The man is J. Sandilippo, member of a well-known family, and the girl claims that for weeks her mother has been trying to get her to invite her suitor to have a seat or to sit at the table with him, either of which would be tantamount to marriage to the girl.

Angered at her refusal to accept Sandilippo, the mother chased the girl so strongly that Lena fled to neighbors, who reported the case to the police.

Today Judge Conner ascertained the facts from the mother and ordered the girl into the custody of the Sisters of Notre Dame.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch] Peer Stromme, a sturdy newspaper man of Grand Forks, N. D., who arrived today on the steamer Persia from the Orient, brings a vivid story of the assault of the Chinese rebels on Hankow and the burning of the city.

Stromme is the first eye-witness to arrive here from the scene of the conflict and conflagration which cost the lives of many thousand human beings and a property loss of more than $10,000,000. Stromme, who is an editor of a Norwegian newspaper in North Dakota, arrived in China over the Siberian Railroad a week before the revolution broke out. He arrived in Hankow October 16, just in time to be enveloped in the terrible combat which covered the streets of the Chinese city with dead and dying.

"I was in Hankow when the trouble commenced," said Stromme, "and am glad to confess that I was glad to get out before things got over."

He has often heard the western stories of a man for breakfast, but for the two weeks I was in Hankow there were a thousand men for breakfast. The streets were strewn with dead and dying.

"I heard of the burning of Hankow. It could not have compared with the burning of Hankow."

"I suppose you have more details of the scene in Hankow than I can give you, but I shall never be able to trace the memory of the burning of Manchus whom I saw beheaded."

INSURGENTS IN HAMLET'S ROLE.

They're Beginning to See Spooks on Ramparts.

Suffer a Nightmare in Fear of Some Conspiracy.

Suspect a Free Wool Report by Tariff Board.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The insurgent Senators are seeing ghosts. They can't and they won't bring themselves to believe in the sincerity of anything concerning the tariff which the President has done or intends to do. The chief ghost they see is that as a result of "scheming" the report of the Tariff Board is to contain something strongly suggestive of the wisdom of putting wool on the free list. It is an attempt to put wool on the free list. Let the insurgent Senators believe that will be no real desire to make wool free, but only a desire to put insurgeny in a hole.

EXTREME BITTERNESS.

It is probable that people do not know full well the extremes to which the bitterers of the present opponents of the present Republican administration have carried the fight. They are obsessed with a notion that the President is engaged in a conspiracy with certain stand-pat members of Congress to prevent any tariff action, and that what the findings of the Tariff Board be. The free wool winter is the present-cid.

No one in Washington except men steeped in bitterness believes for an instant that the Tariff Board would make a misleading report for the sake of appearing to make it appear that free wool was justifiable. It is an attempt to discredit insurgent Republican Senators who want the duties cut, but cannot and will not stand for free trade in this particular product.

LARGELY IN WOOL.

Senators Warren of Wyoming and Simon of Utah are stand-patters of high degree. Warren's interests are largely in wool. The suggestion of free wool ought to make this Senator shake, and yet there are insurgent senators who believe that the way that Warren and Simon would be willing to sacrifice all their personal advantages and all their States' advantages for the sake of joining with other stand-patters to make it appear to the country that the insurgents in the upper house were not sincere in their downward-revision beliefs when they were put to the supreme test.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Changes in the Sherman anti-trust law to prohibit such a reorganization as that sanctioned in the American Tobacco Company case and to except such developments as have been made in the beef trust hearings were declared necessary by Senator Cummins today at the hearings before the Interstate Commerce Committee of the Senate.

HAMMOND (Ind.) Nov. 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The romance of 15-year-old Hazel Davidson, of a prominent and wealthy Chicago family, and "Dicky-Bird" Graham, the "King of the Kedzie-avenue Gang," was shattered in humiliating fashion shortly after midnight this morning when Hazel's father and mother, arriving in a large touring car, came upon the couple in the Pennsylvania Railroad station here.

Papa Davidson immediately boxed the ears of "The King," and then dragged him across his knee and spanked him until he bawled for mercy. After this he took him by the scruff of the neck and kicked him.

TERRIBLE SPECTACLE.

It was a terrible spectacle for Hazel to witness the degrading treatment of "The King." At the close of the performance her parents bundled him into the touring car and started back to Chicago.

The youngsters eloped yesterday. Graham was employed at a nickel show and the girl had become infatuated with him. They fled to Indianapolis, were unable to get a marriage license. They spent their limited supply of money for passage and other luxuries and were planning to return to Chicago for more funds when the parents came upon them.

TRACE THE PAIR.

As soon as they missed their daughter Mr. and Mrs. Davidson started out to burn up the roads. They traced the pair from town to town until they located them.

A new development tonight was word from Chicago that the parents of the girl had relented and will permit her to become the bride of Graham. He is said to be an orphan and will be required to go into court and have a guardian appointed to get consent to marry, as he also is a minor.

"The parents of said child hereby promise before God that in the event the State of Oregon shall have failed to enact an equal suffrage law some time before the said child is twenty-one years of age, then the said parents will remove to some State where people have brains and manly honor instead of self-willed ignorance, and live the rest of their days in the said State."

Senator Newlands of Nevada called attention to the fact that Baker yesterday called at the White House and laid before President Taft a history of the obstacles which he contended had been interposed by the transcontinental railways to the organization of the independent lines of vessels.

"It seems to me," said Newlands, "that it is by an organization of the greatest transcontinental and transoceanic lines of the country that independent steamship line is to be blocked, the government should see to it that the canal is made fully complete by itself securing the necessary funds and erating them, just as it does the present line from New York to Panama."

Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress in Kansas City Denounces the One in a Resolution Adopted and Turns Down Cold a Proposition to Indorse the Other. Will Meet on Coast Four Years Hence.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 17.—After selecting Salt Lake City as the meeting place for 1912, Misses City, Mo., as official headquarters of the twenty-second annual session of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress adjourned this afternoon.

Although the date for holding the next meeting was not definitely decided upon, it was tentatively agreed to convene during the last week of August. The official headquarters were located for only one year. E. J. Becker of this city was elected secretary to succeed Arthur T. Francis of Cripple Creek, Colo., after which Mr. Francis was elected as honorary member of the congress for life.

George B. Harrison, a banker of this city, was elected treasurer.

A resolution was adopted recommending that the congress meet at a Pacific Coast city in 1915, the year of the Pan-Pacific Exposition.

San Francisco and Seattle are rivals for the meeting at that time.

Consideration of the report of the Committee on Resolutions occupied most of today's sessions. The report was adopted practically as submitted.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

The resolution declaring that the congress was against the parcels post was adopted after acrimonious discussion.

Martin Egan, editor of the Manila Times, who had signed a minority report, said that the discussion on the parcels post had been so acrimonious that persons opposed to it were not given proper opportunity to submit their arguments. The minority report was tabled.

George J. Kindel of Denver said express companies had assumed the functions of the government postal service.

"These companies are back of this opposition to the parcels post, and I can not understand the attitude of the states here who are supporting them."

The congress did not openly endorse the plan of the National Monetary Commission to change the currency and banking system, but the resolution stated that the "plan may be a step in the right direction."

It was recommended that the plan be given careful and conservative consideration as the present "monetary system of the United States is inadequate for the needs of the country."

After the congress adjourned the Executive Committee met and appointed the following Congressional Committee:

Fred W. Fleming, Kansas City; Gov. John Burke, North Dakota; Col. E. D. Loveland of San Francisco; Gov. John F. Shafroth, Colorado; Robert Hunter, Iowa; L. Bradford Prince of New Mexico, and Col. T. Pryor of Texas.

John L. Powell of Wichita was chosen chairman of the Executive Committee.

The resolution adopted by the committee on the subject of currency reads:

"We realize that the monetary system of the United States is inadequate for the needs of the country and strongly urge upon Congress the need for a new legal tender currency. We believe that the plan suggested by the National Monetary Commission may be a step in the right direction and recommend its careful and conservative consideration."

AGAINST THE WOMEN.

The committee "turned down" the resolution in favor of woman's suffrage.

As the resolutions adopted the congress recognizes and pays tribute to reclamation and drainage, both by government and State as elements in western development.

SURELY BREAKS THE MOST SEVERE COLD.

Will Overcome All Distress from Bad Cold or the Grippe in Just a Few Hours.

The most severe cold will be broken, and all grippe misery ended after taking a dose of Pap's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

You will distinctly feel all the disagreeable symptoms leaving after the very first dose.

The most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharge, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism, pains and other distress vanishes.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

BISHOP BLAMES THE MANCHUS.

Priests From China Think They Ought to Be Driven Out—Canton May Become the Capital.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) Nov. 17.—The rule of the Manchus in China is one of the three causes of China's bankruptcy, was the statement of Bishop W. S. Lewis of Foo Chow, China, in an address made tonight before the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church in session here.

"The opium traffic," he continued, "is the thing of the past and I firmly believe the Manchus are also a thing of the past."

"If the Manchus are driven out it is possible the capital of the empire will be changed from Peking to Canton, which was the ancient capital, and is deep seated in the Chinese heart, belonging to China's classic age of power."

The Board of Foreign Missions voted today to appropriate its entire collections of last year, amounting to $1,072,997, to the work and raise by a special offering the debt of $171,912.

Bishop James M. Thoburn, missionary bishop of India, was given the floor at the opening of the session.

"The organizations which have contracted debts in India on church or school property, which have not been discharged by the Board of Foreign Missions, do not hold the foreign board responsible," he said, in defense of the restrictions intimated by Dr. J. M. Buckley yesterday, when he demanded a secret session in which to investigate the question. "Some property has been given to us with a view to rise in values as is done in the United States. Other debts have been contracted because the needs were so great in maintaining the work. In every case the debts resting on it are."

Football Championship Game at Claremont Today.

Big Game.

PIGSKIN STARS
LOCK HORNS.Pomona and Tigers Line Up at Claremont.Championship of South Goes
With Contest.Gridiron Gladiators Seem to Be Evenly Matched.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the gridiron warriors of Pomona and Claremont will clash for the inter-collegiate championship of the south on that famous old battle ground, Alumni Field, Claremont.

The game will have the earmarks of a history maker. For two years the Oxy Tigers have tasted the bitterness of defeat at the hands of the Claremont braves and now it is a hungry tiger that is coming from the wilds of Highland Park to the Pomona wash. Bloodthirsty is no name for the spirit of the Tigers—they are out to do or die.

Pomona is silent, as is always the case with these Sage Hens before a big game. In times past this same silence has led the other teams of the south to get careless and think that Stanton had a bunch of farmer boys for the big games. Well, he had the farmer boys but the trouble is they are all horses as nails and are about as big as men as one runs across in a day, or several days.

For the past two seasons Pomona has held the southern pennant, sending all the contenders to the wall after some great battles, but Pomona won each time. Now Papal says the day of reckoning has come.

IN FINE FETTLE.

Both teams are trained to the minute and every man that enters the game this afternoon will be ready to do his best. The Oxy team has had the last two days old "rests" of both colleges have been pouring in, talking of the times gone by, when Pomona beat Oxy or Oxy beat Pomona. These old ones are all crying for blood and have the men on the team worked up to a terrible pitch of mad frenzy.

There will be one week spent on the Tiger team at the present time and that will be found at Bill Smart's end. This young giant sprained his ankle Thursday afternoon in practice and is now just able to hobble around. The trainers at the Oxy camp have been working hard to get the boy with the injured member and now there is some hope that Bill will be able to get into the game for a short time at least. He will be safely missed on the wing, as he was the Presbyterian's one best hope in the running back. But Smart, Brown and his men will probably play throughout the most of the game. This Brown youngster is a light, fast man, but has not had the years of experience allotted to Smart.

The Pomona team will go on the field in fine fettle. Bill and Lutz will both be in the back-field with Shatt and Brooks, the two speed demons, running at halves, the Pomona offense should be even more dazzling than in the Whittier game.

The Tigers will have to come back with their famous stone wall defense to stem the tide of Pomona runs that are bound to come during the first part of the game. Here is the whole question: Can the Tigers hold the first whirlwind attack of the Pomona backs? If they can, the big red hawks will fly over. The Pomona team has not been ready on the defense this season and if they are once forced into a corner by the steady swooping plunges of the heavy Tigers, we may see a reversal of form.

CHANCES EVEN.

The entire season will be rolled up in the game. For two and a half months the teams have been trained for this game, they have heard nothing but the big game with Pomona or Oxy as the one may be with the result that the men will really die in the attempt to win this afternoon.

The sailors of Occidental have been begging the team to show them one more game before the college gates close this year. The team has one of these games in mind and the prospect of being one of the greatest outsiders in the country, setting seventeen chances and never missing one.

In 1905 he joined the Chicago National team and was one of the big features in winning the pennant for two consecutive seasons from 1906 to 1908. So high was he esteemed that he received a gold medal studded with a large diamond.

"We're just here for a short visit with friends and to see my brother, Charles Steinfield of San Pedro," said the third baseman. When asked whether he was on a honeymoon because of the attention paid his young bride, he laughed and explained that he had been married for more than seven years to the same young lady.

Out in the wash things were about the same. Last night a great bonfire was built and the Oxy Tiger burned, after which a regular war dance was performed. When the Oxy special arrived in Claremont, it will be greeted by the Pomona band and a big mob of rosters and it is supposed that the famous rivals will start at once, as the famous rivals each give the opening battle yell.

The same should be close and with all these thrillers for side lights, will probably give the fans something to talk about for the next year.

The Oxy special leaves the Santa Fe-Laguna station at noon today and will make stops at Occidental and Pasadena.

NEW OLYMPIC RULES
UNDER YANKEE SCRUTINYBY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.
NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The complete code of rules of the Olympic games at Stockholm next summer has been received here and is being gone over carefully by the American committee.

To prevent a repetition of the Durando fiasco of the London games, no attendant will be permitted with competitor in the arena during a race. The result of this effect is that any athlete taking drugs may be disqualified immediately.

The rule is in regard to starting is the same as the American rule, except that it calls for no penalty for false starts. Discrepancy from other Olympics, the running will be against the sun, as in this country.

In the hurdles event the obstacles will not be collapsible, as in this country, but will be fixed fast to the upright supports.

In the relay races a round baton of wood or bamboo in circumference will be used and must be passed from one athlete to another. This is different from the American rules, which merely require a "touch-off."

For the Pentathlon and Decathlon contests the Swedish committee has adopted the American system of scoring. The event will be conducted like the American all-round championships, 1000 points being the max-

STIENFELD THREATENS TO QUIT BASEBALL.

Harry C. Steinfield will retire from professional baseball rather than join the Boston club of the National League. He made this statement for the first time since he has been with that club, at the Hayward yesterday afternoon. He arrived at the hotel with his wife from Cincinnati, where he is interested in a number of commercial ventures and expects to remain here for some time.

Steinfield is in a position where he can practically dictate his own terms as far as his baseball career is concerned. He is head of a manufacturing company that makes bakers' supplies trays, pans, shovels and other implements of the business. Just recently the company obtained the contract for making all of the baking pans for the government, to be used at the military posts, in Federal prisons and other institutions.

For several years Steinfield was not an unfamiliar figure to Los Angeles fans. He came here in 1897 with the All National team, which played against the All American team for the entire winter season on Saturdays and Sundays. In one of these games he had the reputation of being one of the greatest outsiders in the country, setting seventeen chances and never missing one.

STIPULATIONS TOO STRINGENT.

Franchise Proposition Must Be Worked Over.

Sharp Would Eliminate the Right of Municipality.

Aviator Rodgers Is Restive and Eager to Fly.

Editor of The Times, 22 S. Fair Oaks Avenue, Pasadena, Nov. 14.—Managing director Paul Shoup of the Pacific Electric Railway company announced yesterday to J. W. Goodwin, president of the Nazarene University Park company, that he would not accept the tentative franchise for a railroad along Washington street to the east city limits, submitted by the City Council with certain stipulations.

The differences between the Council and the railroad agent railroad franchises' probably will be adjusted amicably next Tuesday morning, the Council having invited Mr. Shoup to appear at that time and state his objections to the proposed franchise.

Mr. Shoup will leave Los Angeles this morning for San Francisco and will return in time to attend the session.

Exception is taken by the railroad official to that clause inserted by City Attorney Carr and a committee comprising Councilmen Root, Rhodes and Fong, whereby the city will have the right to take over the road in fifteen years. If this is eliminated it is understood the railroad will construct the road, the cost of which will have been raised by residents of the northeast section as a bonus. The thirty-year franchise clause and the stipulation that the railroad shall construct culvert work without expense to the city, also, is understood, acceptable to Mr. Shoup.

Unless the Council agrees next Tuesday to the demands of the railroad the residents of the fast-growing northeast section declare they will appeal to the County for a franchise to build a line from the intersection of East Grand, Green Avenue and Sierra Streets along the latter avenue north to Washington street. This line would be just outside the east city limits and is considered the most feasible route outside of the one now proposed by the Council.

The residents of Lincoln avenue, in the northwest section are also demanding railroad facilities from Mr. Shoup, and some strife has been stirred up between the two sections of the city by reason of the demands made by the Pacific Electric company. Lincoln avenue people, through the Board of Trade and Merchants' Association, the next road.

FIRST ARREST. The first arrest and successful prosecution under the recently enacted amendments to the city ordinances referring to merchants not conducting a regularly established business in the city took place yesterday when Louis Remond, an itinerant peddler of the balloon, was apprehended in East Colorado street and fined five dollars or its equivalent, five days in the City Jail, for having no license.

Under the provisions of the ordinance, as amended, balloon peddlers conducting a regularly established and selling goods, wares or merchandise on the streets of the city, "for which a fee or four dollars a day is charged."

Outside merchant men have not taken kindly to the ordinance and consider it prohibitory. Particularly is this the case in the matter of patent medicine sellers, who are prohibited from selling their wares in the city. A number of medicine men have appealed to Mayor Thum, to have the measure class legislation, but that official has turned a deaf ear to their arguments.

Fortune tellers and other followers of necromantic professions have also protested against the new law, and consider it prohibitory. Particularly is this the case in the matter of patent medicine sellers, who are prohibited from selling their wares in the city. A number of medicine men have appealed to Mayor Thum, to have the measure class legislation, but that official has turned a deaf ear to their arguments.

LION SCARE.

Reports that two mountain lions had made an excursion into Barley Flat, the winter quarters for Mr. Wilson burros, on the other side of the mountain, resulted in a burro stampede, caused a party of ambitious miners to be organized on the mountain top yesterday which left in an effort to secure some specimens of lion skin.

The party comprised A. E. and C. H. Bales of South Pasadena and Robert Towner of Los Angeles. The three rusticators went armed only with pistols and will remain several days. The Barley Flat region is famous as the mountaintop residence of bandit Vasquez and his men, who terrorized the mines and railroads about twenty years ago. The bandits culminated Barley for their supplies.

BONE PHOTOGRAPH.

Acting on the theory that the bones in the right foot and several ribs of Aviator C. P. Rodgers were broken when he fell with his airplane last Sunday near Compton, Dr. F. C. E. Matteson took X-ray photographs of the foot and ribs last night at the Pasadena Hospital. The films will be developed to-morrow.

Rodgers' injuries probably will delay him from completing his flight to the Pacific Ocean for several weeks. The aviator expects to leave for San Francisco next Friday for a little jaunt and perhaps to sign up for an air race from Los Angeles to the Bay City.

The birdman spent several hours this morning sunning himself on the porch of the Midway Hotel and bidding his time reading and smoking one of his famous strong cigars. He is getting impatient over his enforced stay and is looking forward to the time when he will again mount into the firmament with his repaired flying machine.

FLYING CENTER. Plans were inaugurated yesterday to make Pasadena the center on the Pacific Coast for aerial navigation, with the arrival here of Peter G. Minet of the Queen Aeroplane Company of New York city, and Roy Knabenshue, nationally known aeronaut and aviator and confidential agent for the Wright brothers. The airship builders are asking no bonus to establish a factory and school in Pasadena, simply stating that they will do so if a large enough tract of land is available for their purposes.

ROSE QUEEN.

Mrs. Perkins has a total of 2200 votes to her credit while Miss Bebbie Matteson and Miss Elizabeth Sherk came next with 2000 and 1800 ballots, respectively.

BRIDGE BIDS.

Bids for the construction of the new 200,000 bridge across the Arroyo Seco at the foot of West Colorado street, will be advertised for inside of a month, according to Mayor Thum, who declared yesterday that the plans for the construction would arrive from the supervising architects, Messrs. Waddell and Harrington of Kansas City within a fortnight. It is understood work on the bridge will commence some time during January.

HARMON COMING.

Judson Harmon, Governor of Ohio and possible Presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket, is due to arrive in Pasadena in January, according to advice received by the Pasadena Ohio Society.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The largest and most important social function of the week in Pasadena was the reception given Thursday by Mrs. Harvard N. Lockwood of Palm Springs, who introduced formally into society her two daughters, the Misses Isabel and Mary Thomas Lockwood. Two hundred invitations were sent out. Quite a number of Los Angeles society people were present including Mrs. Joseph Banning and Miss Banning. Two eastern guests, Miss Burgess of New Haven, Conn., and Miss Ford of Hackensack, N. J., were also present.

Black walnuts, beech nuts, chestnuts, hazel nuts, butternuts, wild onions, red apples, and other delectable indulgences to the State of Ohio, constituted the menu served yesterday at a social entertainment given to many Pasadena friends by Mrs. O. S. Compton of South Grand avenue. The hostess returned recently from her old home in Goshen, Ohio, where she was present, were Mrs. Melville Crossens Herne, James Mansfield, Washington S. Redondo Beach School Officials Will Try to Devise a Plan to Avoid Loss of Funds.

REDONDO BEACH. Nov. 17.—Abseces and tardiness among the pupils of the grammar schools of this city during the second month of the school term caused a loss to the district of $60.40 on account of the new law apportioning the school funds in proportion to the average daily attendance.

This loss far exceeds the amount lost during the first month of school.

The absences in the Hermosa Beach schools amounted to $11.62, which is below that of the first month.

Principal G. A. Langworthy is working in conjunction with the teachers of the schools to find some plan to reduce the absences.

Co-operation of the parents with the teachers is the only feasible plan at the present time, though some other method may be used to make the pupils realize the importance of regular attendance.

RESTAURANT FIRE.

The restaurant owned and conducted by O. S. Duncan on wharf No. 1 was completely gutted by fire early this morning. The blaze was first discovered by Nightwatchman Rutter and the alarm was given. The fire department arrived to check it that it was the only which had set the wharf on fire.

The fact that there was not the least wind, the loss was estimated to about $1200.

There was no insurance.

Fifteen extra clerks will be required to handle the additional business. Among these will be weighers, registrars and distributors, and will be taken from the standing civil service list.

TUBERCULAR TALK.

The Long Beach anti-tuberculosis league last night discussed plans for better legislation and enforcement of sanitary measures in the city. The City Council will be asked to name an ordinance prohibiting the emptying and cleaning of spittoons in the street gutters by business houses and also a better enforcement of the separation ordinance. "Swat the Fly" was also an interesting topic and better legislation will be asked for the care of barns, back yards and alleys and the covering of all garbage cans.

The building was a public one and intended for the use of the citizens and visitors. Mayor Wipham today revoked the permission given to charge a nominal admission fee in order to keep out the crowds and prevent vandalism.

The Mayor said, however, that if the written consent of five Councilmen were secured asking the Board of Public Works to consent he would offer no objection. This was secured and then the Mayor said it was inadequate. The situation was finally adjusted when the mechanicians agreed to take off the charge provided they were given free room in which to work and that this has been done, the month half of the sun parlor being roped off for the repair work and to prevent souvenir hunters from taking what is left of the wrecked biplane.

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Effects of seven lumber companies to retain their present yards in the residence districts resulted in a heated argument before the City Council yesterday.

The Board of Public Works received bids yesterday from ten iron companies for the construction of the five remaining siphons on the aqueduct.

At the City Hall.

"TO BE OR NOT," THE QUESTION.

UGLY WORDS ARE PASSED AND APOLOGIES REFUSED.

Council Chamber Scene of Fight Between Lumber-Yard Interests and Residents on Demand for Forest-Tree Protection — Handsome-Gowned Women Crowd Circle.

With the Council chamber at the city hall looking like a fashion show with the charm of women's presence, with the Councilmen in their best, looking their brightest and best—actors conducive of peace—the short and ugly word was passed, yesterday afternoon, angry glances were flashed, and for nearly three hours war raged.

It was a kind of talk-fest, too, one of those endurance tests that is won by the person who can talk the most. In this case representatives of lumber yards and a bakery were on one side fighting for dear life, while opposed were citizens who demanded that the lumber yards be ejected from the residence districts.

It was A. Braun, whose statements about the Cahuenga Pass Lumber Company, and George W. Moore of Pine Heights Lumber Company, in series that the so-called facts were lies, and a hundred and fifty men and women crowded close to the desks of the Councilmen, that the word was passed just as if they were forming a ring in a sporting fashion.

But there was no occasion for the ring, there was no fight.

Braun declared that the lumber company next him is not conducted in a spirit of antagonism to the owners of lumber yards and dirty foreigners are not involved.

It was then that Guy stepped forward, and in his understanding that no personalities were to be involved—in that the statements made by Braun as facts were lies, and he could not stand mute and have such things said.

SOOTHING ANGRY PASSIONS.

Chairman Stewart of the City Council, who presided in the Committee of the Whole, acted as peacemaker, soothed the angered men and announced that no personalities were involved. After Guy had declared that he would not apologize for anything he had said, because what he had said was the fact.

The position of most of the lumber companies was stated. A. F. Morris of the Cahuenga company, who spoke of his company's going to the present place years ago, of the increase in value of the property around the lumber yard, and the damage that could result were the company to be compelled to leave the district, now offered to lease the district, now offered to pay the lumber yards.

There were J. F. Mullis, W. F. Montgomery, A. G. Patterson and several others. Montgomery, in regard to his lumber yard at Highland Park, declared that the site was highly valuable for business that could be obtained.

In opposition Guy Eddie of Highland Park and F. E. Dunlop spoke against the retention of lumber yards and mills in residential districts. Dunlop, who is a lumberman, said he was permitted in districts where palatial homes had been erected, and that they ought not to be permitted, either, in districts where working men and the middle class people of the city had their homes. Eddie contended that the Montebello & Highland Park yard at Highland Park, which he said, had no place there or in Garvanza, that were essentially residence districts. The lumber yard there was a nuisance, he declared.

Harper contended against the continuation of the Doheny Banking Company's plant at Sixth and Broadway streets. This was taken under advisement by the Council, but the lumber yard question, which had really been only half threshed out, notwithstanding the added time taken, for two hours and half, was thrown over till next Tuesday. The Council will hardly be willing to take it up just yet, however, and it is probable that there will be another hearing in committee of the whole.

SIPHON BIDS RECEIVED.

AQUEDUCT CONSTRUCTION.

Bids for the construction of the two remaining siphons on the aqueduct ranged from the Ritter-Conley Company, $275,115.99 to $404,427. by the United States Steel Products Company. It was found when the Board of Public Works opened the proposals yesterday afternoon.

No command was passed upon the amount of the sum of money or price, which was the only part of some of the bids omitted, though it caught the attention of the listeners.

The bid was handed over to the aqueduct experts for comparison and recommendation.

Bids were received from ten contractors, each of whom is a member of the City Club. They offered single items, segregated proposals on different siphons, and finally lump sums in two forms, one for single plates and one for the two-plate construction, although in the latter case the bids were given in the order of the bids made by the James G. Higgins Company of Joliet, Ill., bid only on one job. The Higgins concern's bid on the Joliet job was the highest, for instance, was $164,427.

The lump sum bids were as follows: Petroleum Iron Works of Shreveport, La., single plate, $24,000; Jones Laughlin Steel Company, Pittsburgh, $24,000; Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company of Youngstown, O., $247,000; two-plate, $272,400; Ritter-Conley Manufacturing Company, Pittsburgh, $275,115.99; Ritter-Brothers, Alliance, O., $254,320; United States Steel Products Company, San Francisco, $275,232; Treadwell Car Company, $244,427. The Treadwell Car Company already has a contract on the aqueduct, and it is now engaged. The figure is not everything that must be considered in estimating these bids. Time and condition of delivery is important and separate statements as to these points accompany all the bids.

As each bidder had to submit a ten per cent earnest check, the largest cheek handed to the board, the largest of which was that of the United States Steel Products Company.

TO REDUCE GARBAGE.

MAYOR AT CONFERENCE.

A proposition to establish a reduction works on a large scale was broached yesterday morning in the Mayor's office at a conference which was attended by the Mayor, Commissioner Humphreys of the Board of Public Works, Health Commissioner Powers, and Charles Turner, a civil engineer, who is president of the Chicago Garbage Reduction Company of Chicago.

San Diego has entered into a contract with Turner's company for the reduction of garbage in San Diego, and works at that city. Turner believes that it would be advantageous if it could be agreed upon to erect such reduction works here at the same time.

The plan was explained and it was agreed that it would be better to postpone consideration for a month or so on Turner's return.

PUBLIC TO TALK.

UTILITIES BOARD PLANS.

The merchants, the Municipal League, and every one who is interested in the spur track question and particularly in the amendments to the ordinance suggested by the Public Association, will have to be in attendance at the public meeting of the Board of Public Utilities next Wednesday or else forever hold their horses.

Wednesday afternoon the question argued yesterday afternoon must have seemed no point left untouched, and Secretary Comstock was directed to notify the jobbers and others who have written or talked on the matter before the board to come forward on Wednesday, for after that day the matter will be submitted to the Council.

The York boulevard question is also to be discussed in the public meeting next Wednesday afternoon. This question, the board thought, had been settled.

It was then that Guy stepped forward, and in his understanding that no personalities were to be involved—in that the statements made by Braun as facts were lies, and he could not stand mute and have such things said.

MILLIONS ASKED FOR.

MONEY WANTED FOR HARBOR.

Following the directions given to the assistant chief engineer Vincent of the Bureau of Harbor Improvement to prepare plans for work on the harbor entailing the expenditure of millions of dollars within the next few months, the bureau at its session yesterday morning decided to ask the City Council through the Board of Public Works for $1,500,000 at once and for $3,000,000 for 1912.

What is to be done will be done immediately for the outer harbor and the inner harbor. The wharf at Wilmington will be constructed in part and the dredge at Huntington will be used in filling up the space. The bulkhead at the head of Huntington will be torn down, a fill made behind it, and there is need of money, too, to pay for land now being procressed against under condemnation proceedings for the harbor.

The $3,000,000 for 1912, which will include the $1,500,000 wanted before February 1, is needed the board says, for the work outlined at the harbor and will be spent in the year during which it is available. By the end of this great program is expected to be shown at San Pedro and Wilmington.

ARIZONA FAIR THE BEST EVER.

But Expenses Are Increasing
As Fast As Profits.

Territorial and State Societies in Session.

First Cartload of Oranges
Shipped Eastward.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Nov. 15.—The Arizona Fair, which closed last Saturday evening as a Territorial institution, was probably the best ever locally known, and had the largest attendance. Expenses are increasing annually, however, as fast as the income, and it is probable that the usual deficit will need to be made good by the incoming Legislature. The racing-card was not as good as usual. Heretofore at least one track record has been taken annually on the extremely fast Phoenix track.

Two new features were the Horse-race, 2:01, and Cope de Oro, a racing stallion which made a record of 1:55 on the track last year. Both had been sick, however, and neither could be sent for a record during fair week. The chariot races between Evergreen and Sinard possibly furnished the most interesting feature of the week outside of the automobile races. In one of the "Three-wheeler" races a record was made of 4:46, which is said to be a new world record for the distance on a circular track. Much interest attached also to the camp of a squadron of the Sixth Cavalry, which furnished daily additions to the program in the shape of drills and military contests.

LARGER EXHIBITS.

The exhibits were larger this year than ever before necessitating several new buildings of temporary type. For the first time in years the first prize for a general agricultural exhibit was taken by Maricopa county, though the country is not the most important section of the Territory. The prize was awarded largely on account of the diversity of products exhibited. Yavapai county came second and with a monadnock of asphalt and asphaltic materials was third. A part of the Salt River valley exhibit already has been started for the National Livestock Show at Chicago, together with several other exhibits.

The week was remarkable for the meeting of numerous Arizona societies. The Arizona Cattlemen's Association elected J. A. Johnson of Williams president, and W. W. Williams of Phoenix, secretary, and determined to use every effort to bring the Phoenix in 1912 the convention of the American National Live Stock Show. Friends, evening at the New Adams Hotel were organized a State Antiquarian Association, particularly for the purpose of saving to posterity the ancient evidences now so abundant in Arizona. Among the most prominent are the Mohave country, Gov. Sloan and Miss Sharlot Estill, Territorial Historian. At the meeting of the Arizona Teachers' Association an evening concert was given by the local church choirs and one of the local choirs was well filled by delegates.

The Arizona Dental Society elected Dr. W. P. Sims of Bisbee president, and Dr. H. H. Williams of Phoenix, secretary-treasurer, closing a three-day's session with a banquet. The Arizona Board of Pharmacy and the Arizona Pharmaceutical Association met in Phoenix on Saturday, the former to examine into the qualifications of applicants for State licensure, and the latter to discuss matters of interest to druggists generally.

CITIZENS' LEAGUE.

At the Board of Trade rooms was organized an Arizona chapter of the National Citizens' League, an association for the promotion of a sound banking system. Hon. J. D. Donan of Tucson was elected president, D. B. Head of Phoenix, vice-president and chairman of the Executive Committee; Frank H. Herendeen, Tucson, chairman of the Finance Committee, and George W. Dietz, secretary-treasurer. The annual meeting of the Arizona Deaf and Dumb Association was held at the Board of Trade rooms, with a basement at the Board of Trade rooms, and with an address by Bishop Atwood upon "Co-operation." The chief subject disposed of concerned the creation of a territorial Board of Education, and approval was given to the draft of a bill to be submitted to the next State Legislature. It provides for headquarters and for the support of a state school, to be named by a board of five members from various parts of the State.

A meeting of the Postmasters' Association of Arizona was attended also by Postmaster Arthur G. Flax of San Francisco, Inspector in Charge H. Hall, William Franklin and Inspector in Charge W. E. Cochran of Denver, detailed by the Postmaster-General. R. E. Muller of Tempe was elected president; R. E. Chandler of Yuma vice-president, and Wm. Fetter of Arizona, secretary-treasurer. The most important item of resolution was that which called for classification within the Civil Service of all postmasters, to the end that promotion to executive positions might be had by deserving employees of the civil service.

Within the week also was held the thirty-third annual Arizona Convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. L. La Chance presiding. Later in the week was held the annual session of the Arizona Firemen's Association. It is probable that a firemen's tournament will be held under the auspices of the association next year at Phoenix or Tucson.

JAPANESE LANTERNS.

The streets during fair week were festooned with electric lights and were decked with decorations the busier section with bunting. The Japanese residents of Phoenix added to the attractiveness of the city by a donation to the decoration committee of 500 Japanese lanterns.

Saturday afternoon there was a thrill throughout Phoenix when a balloon which had been captive at the fair grounds was driven by a heavy wind eastward above the city. Several persons with field glasses declared that they could see passengers in the basket of the derelict. Telephoning to the fair grounds brought information that the balloon had broken loose with no one in it, as at the time it was in charge of a Deputy Sheriff under attachment. The balloon descended near Tempe with slight damage and is now held at the Sheriff's office. It was operated by C. L. Stevens of Los Angeles, who it is alleged, owes a share of his earnings to C. H. Barker.

WARNING.

State appeared surprised at the brevity of the examination.

Deputy District-Attorney Horton gave the talesman a searching examination, but did not develop any solid basis for challenge. Nicholson said that he was interested in the terrible disaster as a matter of news, but did not reach any conclusion as to how the explosion originated.

"Has anyone been to talk with you who assumed to have knowledge of the facts?" inquired Horton.

"No sir, I have talked with many persons, but none seemed to know much more than I did about it," was the reply.

"Have you any strong labor-union friends in your circle of acquaintances?"

"I don't know. Probably some of the men I know belong to a union," was the rather vague reply.

Nicholson said he had read The Times and several other papers. He said he generally had time to glance over the headlines, but never read all the articles relating to the explosion and death of twenty employees.

He declared that the alleged discovery of internal machine at the Zeehanella plant, Otis and Secretary Zeehanella, had not caused him to form any opinion concerning the destruction of the plant.

Horton asked a number of other questions tending to disclose the talesman's state of mind. He was finally passed for cause, but Nicholson may be perceptively challenged later on.

HAD HEARD THINGS.

P. C. McCandless, a Covina orchardist, next interrogated, said he had read The Times for about twelve years. He stated he knew the attitude of the labor-unions towards the paper and its management from time to time.

"Then no doubt you have heard labor-union members express bitterness towards The Times?" asked Darrow.

"I certainly have," replied the talesman.

"And you don't approve of their attitude, do you?"

"I do not."

"Do you share the views of The Times?"

"In some things, I do."

McCandless further stated that he was prejudiced against labor-union methods and thought he ought not to sit on the case. He said while viewing the ruins of the Times Building he heard a man make remarks that clearly indicated their attitude. He was not permitted to relate what he had heard.

"How do you know they were members of some union?" inquired Darrow.

"From what they said," was the reply.

McCandless said he was close to the ruins for two hours on the Sunday after the disaster and took a number of pictures.

"Did you read in Thursday's Times the memorial address of Rev. Mr. Burdette?" inquired the lawyer.

"I think so."

" Didn't he charge the disaster to labor unions?" asked Darrow.

"I think he did—at least indirectly."

Darrow then challenged the talesman for entertaining actual bias and prejudice against the defendant.

The challenge was resisted by the State.

"Your bias arises from what you have read, doesn't it?" asked Darrow.

"I have never talked with anyone who pretended to know the facts in the case."

"No."

"And of course you have no personal knowledge of the matters concerning which you have read."

"No."

Horton asked McCandless if he were opposed to serving on the jury. The other replied that he thought it the duty of every good citizen to serve when qualified. He declared that it was impossible for him to set aside his opinion which was formed after much thought and consideration. Judge Bordwell dismissed him.

This exhausted the list of talesmen in court. Adjournment was taken before noon until this morning.

EVENING STARS IN THE MORNING.

THEATRICAL NIGHT AT SHRINE HOUSEHOLD SHOW.

Last Day of Exposition Today and a Grand Auction and Stampede Planned to Clear the Big Auditorium of What Is Left of the Exhibits that Are for Sale.

Once a man wrote a song about losing his star in a blazing world of light. This happened to any number of stars at the Shrine Household Show last night. It was theatrical night and the footlights not only gleamed but glared, while the ceiling, with its myriad of dazzling incandescent globes, presented a shining firmament which poured down its rich splendor on the light-hearted multitude.

Nobody on the Shrine stage said anything like that, of course, because actors are not fond of the hook, but all of them saw the glittering wonder overhead and some of them are still looking for a star to light up their lives.

It was not until the close of the theaters that the merry hand of playgoers arrived at the Auditorium, but after 11 o'clock the stars arrived in clusters and by midnight they formed a scintillating constellation. They told the tale of the stage, where the near-stars twinkled, the little ones sparkled and the large ones glared, until early morning. If there is any acting of indifferent quality in the Los Angeles theaters this morning, it will not be because the actors are bad, but merely because they are tired. Too much Shrine light makes little stars pale.

Until 11 last night ordinary mortals crowded the Auditorium to enjoy many pleasant features. In crushing numbers they strove merrily for places in the coffee line, snatched eagerly at packages of yellow laundry soap, waited patiently by the hour to embrace a gilt-edge proposition in the shape of a $1000.00 gold-bullion brewery stamp upon it, and, like drowning people, clutched madly for straws at the ice cream soda booth.

Youngworth, Ingram, Tead and Keoran commanded their now-familiar goods in the household department in the form of breakfast cereals and other seasonal relishes. A new school of the pleasant variety of fresh-water fish somewhat vulgarly termed the sucker arrived on the crest of the波潮 tide, every five minutes and the grocery-store department of the show did business on a wholesale basis.

This is the last day and night of the show and it promises to have a good attendance. The doors are opened free to all, and the 270 exhibitors. Late tonight all of the innumerable good things in the many booths will be sold at auction, and a stampede is expected.

The total sum raised by the show will be applied to the entertainment fund which the Imperial Council is here in May, 1912.

MAKING ALLOWANCES.

What a man says that you know to be true is the spirit of life and lies great law speaking through him. What he says which does not ring true is the evidence of a person failing to live his vision.

MAKING IT STICK.

One of the Elkins girls has succeeded in marrying uninterrupted and without a newspaper campaign. The secret of her success lies in the fact that she chose a "Californian and not a foreign nobleman."

BORROWERS.

If a man gives another man a bad check for $2 he is put in jail, but if the same man borrows $50 in all had nothing to say and keep the money without any effort to return it and nothing is done about it. The one way to protect oneself from this sort of criminal is not to loan the $50 when in doubt, and to doubt with cheerful frequency.

S. COOTY ARRIVES.

"Sooty" has made another fortune in Death Valley. His first stroke, whether mythical or real, was lightly squandered on a campaign of notoriety. This time he has purchased a $35,000 residence in Los Angeles, paying cash for the place. When a man knows enough to buy Los Angeles really and has real money to pay for it, he has made good.

ANOTHER STAPLE.

Southern California has another reliable crop to enrich the industrious rancher. The almond orchard has made good and a large tract of land has been purchased by a local syndicate for the purpose of establishing an orchard of vast proportions. The almond should prove a prime factor in the economy of the Southland, since it is not affected by altitude up to a point of 3000 or 4000 feet and seems to require comparatively little water.

A BANQUET HALL.

The three City Clubs are discussing a plan for taking a full floor in some adequate building as a permanent banquet hall. The expense of maintaining such headquarters would be guaranteed by the three clubs, but might be shared by other dinner clubs how more or less handicapped for want of ample accommodations. No one of the City Clubs is capable of entertaining its full membership because neither of them has the necessary dining facilities. Los Angeles is a city of so much beauty that it should have as a common meeting point for these associations a chamber of light.

THE GARBAGE STATION.

The Pacific Electric finds it difficult to locate a station for loading garbage that will not be stubbornly opposed by those who must ride past it. Formerly the garbage was loaded from wagons into freight cars at Anderson street and was transferred from that point to the garbage farm on the Alhambra line. Citizens proceeded against it by injunction and were sustained by Judge McCormick. It is now proposed to do this loading near the junction of the Short Line and the South Pasadena line. This plan is met by a storm of opposition on the grounds that not less than 50,000 persons pass this point daily and that the atmosphere will be bad for patients at the County Hospital. All who approach Los Angeles from the east on the Pacific Electric must pass this point. This includes the people of Pasadena, Monrovia, Covina and many other towns. It also embraces practically all of the tourists who visit here. The objection is valid enough, but what can be done about it?

PURITAN AND CAVALIER.

It has been the habit of young orators, and of none-too-well-informed journalists to rate all New Englanders as Puritans and all southerners as Cavaliers. The classification is not in the least warranted by the facts. Robert J. Walker of Mississippi was born and reared in Pennsylvania. John A. Quinn of the same State was born and reared in New York, and the great Mississippi orator, Sargent S. Prentiss, was born and reared in Maine. John C. Calhoun was a Puritan in doctrine, and Daniel Webster was a good deal of a Cavalier in his habits. John Slidell never saw Louisiana until he was old enough to vote. He was sprung from New England ancestors and was a graduate of Columbia College in New York.

Albert Sidney Johnston did not have a drop of southern blood in his veins. His father and mother were Connecticut Yankees who emigrated to Kentucky shortly before his birth. "Stonewall" Jackson was a Puritan.

There were many Cavaliers who rode in Puritan saddles—Ethan Allen, and John Stark, and Mad Anthony Wayne, and Israel Putnam. On the whole the descendants of Puritans and Cavaliers are so mixed up geographically and stirpiculturally that they cannot be picked out with any certainty.

Sure sign that Congress is about to meet. They are discussing the proposed change of inauguration day in Washington. Los Angeles ought to be the national capital and then it would make no difference what day was set apart for the induction into office of a President. Sunshine rules the whole year round.

Home owners might look at the boost in the tax rates in Milwaukee before voting the Socialistic ticket. It is an illuminating object lesson.

H. BART TO HEART, ELBOW TO ELBOW.

If there were no voters in Los Angeles to be considered except readers of The Times the discussion might stop right here. For the most part the regular readers of this journal know what they ought to do, and will do it.

But there are thousands of those who will vote in December who are not among our regular readers, many who seldom, if ever, see a copy of the paper. It is among these that the missionary work must be done between now and election day.

There is only one way to reach these people and that is through personal contact with those who have the interest of the city at heart. Friends, each one of you can reach many a man, a word dropped into whose ear in a calm and sympathetic manner may either change his vote from the wrong side to the right, or, if he is hesitating, may lead him to the conclusion that he will go to the polls on election day and do his full civic duty. Pin on those little American flags on him!

This is a question in which every resident of the city is interested, and equally. We are all workers together for the general good of the city; that is, each works for the general good of all. We are fellow-towners and we are bound together closely in a community of interests. It is not a question of class advantage or special interest with the individual or collection of them.

It is passing strange that there should be any intelligent person blind to facts so obvious as these. Just try our recipe for the political life that threatens us. We all have neighbors, and if our conduct has been right between man and man our words cannot be without influence. No matter what sort or condition of man your neighbor may be, as you meet him on the street or by his own doorstep urge him to look at this matter, not in a spirit of parties and politics, not in an unsympathetic way which obstructs the line of vision by class considerations of the condition of one man in life compared with another. No matter what his occupation or his standing in the social scale, ask him if it is possible to injure the business of any person or aggregation of persons engaged in any line of enterprise and not disastrously affect more than the one involved. Now, carry this consideration from the individual to the whole community and ask your neighbor how it is possible to do injury to a whole line of enterprise, indeed to all lines of enterprise, and not affect the whole community from beginning to end and from top to bottom.

Do not wait for a commission from any association or committee. Constitute yourself a committee of one, commissioned by your own patriotism to plead with every neighbor you can reach, urging him to consider carefully the interests, not of himself alone or the class he belongs to, but of the whole community, then with this consideration fixed in his mind when election day comes let him go to the booth and cast his ballot as he thinks will be best for the general good.

The following few lines of fugitive poetry express the inspiration that should guide every citizen's hand as he stamps his ballot:

"A conquered earth with all its hidden store,
A boundless wealth, from manhood hid no more;

The ocean wild to service bound in chains,
Wrought link on link by man's creative brain;

The clouds which hide the sky, no pathway bars,

Which leads to man's communion with the stars.

Yet, soul upwinging to a height divine,
Fall in their flight, when swayed by "Mine and Thine."

REAL BATTLE NOT WITH SOCIALISM.

A persistent effort for the purpose of misleading the minds of people is being made to represent the conflict in the municipal election as one simply between the present order of things and pure socialism. In other instances this misrepresentation is made in unconscious ignorance.

If any analysis could eliminate all the alien properties and leave as a residuum pure socialism there would be no conflict at all worth the name. There is not in all Los Angeles a big handful of persons of this cult.

Of course socialism is an exceedingly complex doctrine of as many hues of thought as the spring mess presents of flowers; but, including all shades of socialism in the scope of inquiry, the political conflict does not center around the complex cult. If it did even this the battle would have been won, not merely now, but long ago. Taking all the shades of socialism together there are not enough of them in Los Angeles to constitute an efficient corporal's guard. Socialism is merely seized upon for the sake of its red banner and to add its modicum of votes to the real army battling against the best interests of this city marked for its present prosperity and progress, for its peace at the moment, and its promise for the future.

The real issue is between independent tollers in all the various industries and enterprises of today and that aggressive, would-be monopoly known as union labor in its various organizations. This is in this shape not a new conflict in this community; it has lasted nearly a quarter of a century, and every battle engaged has been won by the great army of intelligent, law-abiding and fair-minded citizens whose motto in business is that very old and exceedingly good one, "Live and Let Live."

There were many Cavaliers who rode in Puritan saddles—Ethan Allen, and John Stark, and Mad Anthony Wayne, and Israel Putnam. On the whole the descendants of Puritans and Cavaliers are so mixed up geographically and stirpiculturally that they cannot be picked out with any certainty.

Sure sign that Congress is about to meet. They are discussing the proposed change of inauguration day in Washington. "Carry Your Grip, Sir?"

BURDETTE AT THE BAT.

CXII.

"Now is the Time to Break Up Clubs."

Not often is a man impelled to make a public acknowledgment of the channel, his associations and moral benefit which he has received from a plain, old-fashioned don, with a loud, angry hum, blunt speech and a ranking sting in its tail, one of the kind that leaves the recipient in no shade of doubt as to meaning and intention. The kind that is in such deadly earnest that it lifts you—nothing personal, you understand in that "you," it's just a form of speech which includes me—right off your feet, so wide awake that you can't get mad about it. I say a man doesn't often make public his feelings of gratitude and appreciation for that sort of greeting. But yesterday morning one of that kind, a straight one that split the plate without any pretense of a curve, came over and I just had to "hit and run."

In this instance the pitcher was a newspaper. The bill was pinned to the little letter which told very plainly that the pitcher didn't care very much whether the ball hit me or I hit the ball. He was going to get a move on me whether I ran or limped. He made his point. I made my base, but I paid the bill, and that particular pitcher will trouble me no more for a year, anyhow. But this is what I score on; before I got through reading that letter I had found in it a text worth more than the price of the subscription.

In the first place, it set me to thinking. Book-keepers make very few mistakes in these days of commercial efficiency and the account was undoubtedly correct. But the writer?

I looked over my littered desk, piled with read and unread debris of the mail accumulation of a week. "The Daily Stemwinder?" I remembered the name as one recalls a summer hotel acquaintance. Ah, yes! "I gotcha." It was the little newspaper always folded crookedly with one end sort of tucked in and the edges sticking raggedly out at the other, and the wrapper pasted fast to the paper, so that when you opened it you tore off the top of the editorial page all the way across. You know the kind. Well, that was it. The Stemwinder is printed in a little town that has a name like a college yell and is devoted to the irrigation of the Sahara and things like that. It had been two years, since I have torn it out of its wrapper, having learned to recognize it at sight. This accounts for the fact that I was thirty-six months in arrears. It wasn't a bad little paper at all. Only its unfortunate habit of getting inside its wrapper and pasting itself to itself destroys the title of the editorials, and it is then impossible to tell, merely by reading the article, what it is all about.

Calling the Roll.

But when the little paper asserted a substantial appreciation of its hidden worth it made me think of other, even more assertive periodicals to which I was in literary bondage. And this being the time of the year when one's mail is a snow-storm of circulars and prospectus and combinations, setting forth the advantages of making up subscription clubs, I called the roll of the masters of the greater part of my time to see what chance there might be for me to enter the union of myself against the predatory literary trust which was monopolizing much of my valuable time which might better be devoted to meeting my fellow-men at the City Hall, or the park benches, in hotel lobbies, and other clubrooms of the unemployed, of whom I am one. And this is what I discovered as a result of my reconnaissance.

The Swarm.

There troop into "Sunncress," daily, weekly and monthly, eight daily papers bringing the news and representing the political of various parties in Los Angeles, Pasadena, Chicago and Redondo Beach. Twenty-one weeklies, more or less religious, there being five Baptist, one Presbyterian, one Congregationalist, one Methodist, one Second Advent, one Catholic, one Christian Science, one Episcopalian, one charming "review" in Los Angeles, too modest to term itself; one Socialist and one New Thought, which changes its views so often I am unable to classify it, and two Sunday-school weeklies. Also the Woman's Journal of Boston, one theatrical journal and one musical paper—these two, as I play not, neither do I sing, represent the persuasive eloquence of some agent, or more likely some child in a contest. Following these, eleven monthlies, each one worth more than its price in the advertisement alone, the general value being increased about 10 per cent, by the literary matter added thereto. A real guard of forty-two quarterlies. A grand total of forty-two "regular" periodicals.

The Exchange Room.

No wonder my study looks like the exchange room of a big daily. At least it would if I could find anything I needed when I wanted it. Which I cannot. Added to these is the "Literary Warious" which comes in every mail, circulars, catalogues, prospectuses, sample chapters, "marked" generally containing something mean about the foolish man who opens them, Congressional speeches and pamphlets.

Oh, I forgot one—it also comes to you. A magazine which is wrapped in a tight roll. You have to cut the wrapper lengthwise with a knife. And then when you try to roll the thing backward to wrap it out so that you can read it each page rolls up into a scroll by itself. This thing, after you have treated it decently two or three times, goes unopened along with the Daily Stemwinder. Publishers who are sending me magazines wrapped in this bombproof style know what becomes of them. This manner of wrapping mail is a crime and should be punished by a term in the penitentiary. Ask any postoffice or railway postal clerk.

When Newspaper Was King.

In the old days there was no help for this sort of thing. Under the law if, in a moment of weakness, you subscribed for paper or magazine for "the remaining quarter of the year" or "for the campaign" you are a life subscriber. There was no escape. Those were the days of the wrathful "Stop-my-paper!" messages. Much the editor cared. It only once in a while, in some forgetful moment, you took the paper out of the postoffice with the rest of your mail; or if a neighbor kindly volunteered to bring it home to you as you was passing your way, or one of the children got it—the circumstance being that the paper had been sent to you for another year. The law made you pay for it so long as the editor chose to send it to you. But now, owing to the fact that the readers, by a close but safe majority, outnumber the papers, the law has been changed, and the man who keeps on sending you the "Palladium of Liberty" and the "Bird of Freedom" does it at his own risk, which is personal.

Insulted.

[Lippincott's:] A strapping German with big hands of proportion streaming down his face was darting in and out the aisles of a Philadelphia department store. His excited actions attracted the attention of all the sales persons, and they hardly knew what to make of it. The hustling young man of the clothing department walked up to him and asked, "Are you looking for something in men's clothing?" "No," he roared; "not men's clothing; men's clothing. I can't find my wife!"

WOMEN'S WORK,
WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BY SYDNEY FORD.

"If Shakespeare Came to Broadway" was the somewhat startling and altogether appealing subject that Walter H. Nichols brought before the Friday Morning Club yesterday. Prof. Nichols formerly occupied the chair of history and literature in the University of Colorado and he is a writer of plays, himself, so he can appreciate the difficulties which Shakespeare would bump up in trying to give the chance to drop down before the entrance of one of our Broadway theaters and attempt to get one to play his plays before the astute manager for consideration.

There would be several difficulties in the way, it was pointed out, even supposing that Bard of Avon should be so lucky as to get past the office boys and guardians into the sacred presence of the manager. The very first difficulty to confront the adequate presentation of such a play as for instance, "The Merchant of Venice." Mr. Nichols observed, would be the modern picture-framing, as against the taste of the Elizabethan period with its possibilities of scene shifting to fit the many stage settings which change with such rapidity in Shakespeare's plays. He illustrated this with a picture of a how-to stage suitable for the purpose and suggested the idea of having little stages built in the high schools for the suitable presentation of Shakespearean drama, in place of the modern, present, counting of lines, etc., which rules.

If Shakespeare came to Broadway, he would have to build his plays to fit the modern stage and the manager would be likely to require some explanation of the meaning of introducing such highly improbable characters as a Shylock, who would actually demand a pound of flesh, or such an unreasonable incident as the camel's story.

Channing Pollock's highly amusing account of the interview between Gilbert and a New York manager who seceded the playwright, pointing out the spots that must be rewritten and the situations that must be altered to suit the public taste till the cash drawer in the box office is staying at the hotel.

He predicted that a new Shakespeare will arise—not of an Elizabethan type—but rather one who will mold the modern world in poetry and love around the soul of a woman—some one who will strike a real American note.

A fine portrait of Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson was hung yesterday in the club auditorium. It is the work of Miss Helen May Carlisle, who was a guest of the club.

Political Pictures Bewildered.

"We have been so suddenly plunged into a great political world that it will not be strange if a great many women are bewildered," said Mrs. Elias Tupper Wilkes in her address before the Civics Section of Ebell Club.

"I think none of us realized how great a change it would make till it came with startling suddenness upon us," she continued. "We need especially to keep our heads and next, to keep cool and calm. It will now be demanded of every woman to know something of all the issues of public life; this will be less difficult between the masculine character and the womanly character; we must have less of hysterical and emotional interest in public concerns, and more interest in individual problems, as one characteristic of the woman must at once put behind them—and that is intolerance with those who differ in politics or opinions. I think we have all been surprised to see how men can fight like mad in politics, and the women in a social or political life in the calmest sort of good fellowship. It would take a woman six months to forget such differences. We must cultivate this masculine quality."

Mrs. Wilkes then went on to speak of the part women should take in civic betterment—looking after the garbage, milk and food questions, cold storage methods and school conditions. She said that in view of the fact that sufficient school accommodations should be provided so that no more than twenty children should be under one teacher, instead of seventy as the case may be, some instances she thought the women should demand that the school board that there be fewer children in one room, more fresh air and out of door life.

"We may make our influence felt in this direction, the armed forces have never had necessary demands in this city but it was met—the money was raised somehow."

Women Study Civics.

Garbage incinerators, the smoke nuisance, school problems and other questions of civic importance absorbed the entire programme of the Ebell civic section last Thursday morning. In the present stress and strain of the coming election, women are particularly interested in political issues.

Mrs. Ashley tackled the garbage problem with as much aplomb and intelligence as though she were dealing with the most intricate of financial problems. She explained to the audience an incinerator and how to separate garbage and why. All the combustible rubbish must be separated from the tin cans and broken crockery, and all the wet waste from the kitchen. The incinerators must be burned at the same time. Some of it would require a temperature of 2000 degrees Fahrenheit to reduce it to ashes, whereas bits of paper and dry scrapes would go out like a match. She explained that our incinerator in Los Angeles is used only to burn combustible trash and dead animals. Incinerators cost a lot of money, however, and are perishable articles at that. A small incinerator that costs $100.00 might last ten years, whereas a poorly constructed one will be done for in one. A few incinerators in the world are used for salvaging. In Vienna the ashes are used as filling in the floors of docks.

Mrs. Read took up the fly question and advocated his complete extermination. He is a dithy fellow who pollutes his wings with his face but is careless about his feet.

Mrs. F. F. Fay told about your project of building the Model cottage in the grounds of the Utah street mission. The Board of Education has built the women's Ebell Club furnished it at a cost of about $272. This is the second cottage maintained as part of the school system in the United States and there 775 girls are learning by practical experience how to keep house and how to sew. Many of them are Russian girls and they take to the lesson like a duck takes to water. The kitchen equipment is complete, from an electric flat-iron to an ice cream freezer. Each pupil has her lesson in practical housekeeping once a week. In the sewing class the girls are taught how to make the curtains, sheets, pillow-slips, etc., for the house and are also taught how to fashion garments for themselves and for the babies at home. Girls are also taught by in the Russian household and many of these girls are largely responsible for its care as the mother goes out by day's work. Likely as not, the baby is being cared for in the day nursery which is also a part of the equipment of the Utah street school.

Copying the Khedive.

The men of the San Francisco Commonwealth Club seem to be copying the plan of the Khedive of Egypt in regarding women to the galleries.

Over in Cairo, in the famous mosque built by Mohammed Pasha, the interior of which is beautiful and grand beyond description, there is an immense gallery in the rear of the huge, oval auditorium, where women are permitted to assemble when the Khedive comes once a year, to worship.

Miss Adaline Miller,
Who died in Sierra Madre yesterday

throughout the Civil War as a nurse and made her entire life one of usefulness for humanity.

She Sleeps Well.

LIFE'S SERVICE
ENDS IN PEACE.DEATH TAKES ARMY NURSE OF BRILLIANT RECORD.

Born of Stock that Supplied Soldiers for Every Conflict in the History of America. She Served in Field Hospital Through Four Years of Civil War.

The last chapter in the story of a noble woman will be written at 2 o'clock this afternoon when funeral services will be conducted for Miss Adaline Miller, who died in Sierra Madre Thursday at the age of 85 years. Services will be held in the chapel of the Dexter Samson Company, No. 1112 South Flower street, and Stanton Post and Relief Corps, G.A.R., will have charge. Interment will be at Rosewood.

Miss Miller spent her entire life, long as it was, in the service of the sick and unfortunate. Born of a stock which supplied soldiers for every conflict in the history of the country, she herself served through the four years of Civil War as a volunteer nurse. Her mother, who died at Oneida, N. Y., was unable through physical disqualification to do military duty and she persuaded him to let her go.

She had her first experience as an army nurse in the regimental hospital of the Twelfth Illinois Volunteer Infantry. Later she ministered to the wounded during service in the battles of Fort Donelson and Henry. She was then transferred to a floating hospital on the Mississippi River. In July, 1863, she was placed in charge of a diet kitchen at Chattanooga and fought to the last to care for the wounded. Throughout the entire struggle she distinguished herself in the hospitals as her ancestors had on the battlefield.

After the war ended she took charge of the Orphan Asylum at the Imperial Hotel in Los Angeles. She was a home for teachers who taught under the auspices of the Christian commission. After working there two years she returned to her home in Chicago and for ten years taught in schools in that city. For many years afterward she was associated with the Industrial Home for Girls in North Evanston, Ill.

Miss Miller came to Los Angeles twenty-five years ago and has made her home with her sister, Dr. Elias Miller, 1401 South Spring Avenue street. She was a member of Central Baptist Church for many years and of Stanton W.R.C. No. 6.

Her death, due to old age, was probably hastened by a fall which she had not had for a year ago which confined her to her bed for weeks. She was taken to Sierra Madre a few months ago.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR.
AN ELOQUENT KENTUCKIAN.

Rev. C. O. Johnson is conducting a series of meetings in the Occidental Heights Baptist Church, where he is highly attracting large crowds. Mr. Johnson is a vigorous and very-muchalive speaker, and is a powerful exponent of the old gospel. He is the regular pastor of South Park Baptist Church, this city.

Rev. A. S. Barnes, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, will preach tomorrow morning on the subject: "Highway to Hell," and investigate the conditions of the people. It is a document conveying to him certain gifts, which were to be devoted to the providing of sacrifices, and the accomplishment of work in Jerusalem. Ezra went up as representing Artaxerxes.

This lesson gives us an account of how he gathered together those who were to accompany him, and according to the list given in this book, there numbered about 1400. Assembling them by the side of the river, they encamped for three days, during which they examined the people, and finding that there were none of the sons of the priestly tribe, and two hundred and twenty Nethinim. Still tarrying in the encampment, they observed a fast, and waited upon God for His guidance. Having done all this they set out upon their march, and the course followed, was a journey of nearly a thousand miles, occupying three months and eighteen days. Arrived at Jerusalem, after three days quiet on the Sabbath, they began to build the temple.

Our Lovely Daughters: Who shall have them? or "Give the Girl a Chance," will be the topic upon which Dr. Locke will preach in the First Methodist Church on Sunday evening, and there will be special music by the great choir. "Not Ashamed of the Gospel of Christ," will be his morning subject, and Mrs. Braden will sing, "Not Ashamed of Jesus."

The City of Los Angeles" will be the subject of the morning sermon tomorrow, by Rev. W. D. Landis of Westlake Presbyterian Church, and his evening subject will be, "The Redistricting of Precincts Ends--Mayor Meets Women Today.

Big Help.
NEW PRECINCTS
ARE PROVIDED.Eighty-two Additional for the City Election.Ordinance to Be Presented to Council Tuesday.List of Streets that Will Be Dividing Lines.

The work of dividing the large precincts of the city for the purposes of the municipal election December 5, was completed by City Clerk Lelande last night and work on preparing the ordinance and naming election officials will begin today. It is expected that the divisions of some will be postponed in view of the Council's desire to have the Council pass the ordinance Tuesday. Under the charter ordinances affecting elections may take effect at once and will not require the thirty-day period for the referendum nor an emergency clause.

Eighty-two of the 255 precincts will be divided. Two of them, Nos. 34 and 182, will be divided into three sections, as each has more than 1800 voters.

The old precinct numbers will be preserved but the sections will be lettered—that is they will be known as 34A, 34B and 34C where there are three divisions. The lettering A and B where there are only two.

This will make a total of 217 precincts as against 255 without division. The key to the new precincts is in the street that is used for division. If a north and south street is used it means that all positions on the north side will be separated. This is also true of the east and west streets. County Clerk Lelande has been sent a list of the divisions and will re-segregate the registration certificates according to it and mail notices accordingly to all the registered voters.

The following list shows the precincts and number to be divided and the street that will be the dividing line in each case:

Cut This Ballot Out and Take It to the Polls

With you on election day. It is correct. The one printed previously was incorrect in that it transposed the candidates for Attorney, Auditor and Assessor. The crosses are opposite the names of Good Government candidates. The three special questions will be found on the official ballot at the left side of the top; they are printed below merely for convenience. None of these questions has any relation to the candidates for office.

Stampeding.
SCORES TURN
FROM HARRIMAN.AUDITORIUM ROWDINESS TOO MUCH FOR SUPPORTERS.

Find that There Is an Element Behind Socialists that Means Mischievous if It Ever Gets Power. Arouses Many Dormant Former Anti-Alexander Men.

The near-rioting by the desperate supporters of Harriman at the Alexander meeting at the Auditorium Thursday night has brought great reinforcements to the ranks of the Alexander workers. The effect was felt at the Citizens' Committee headquarters, at Good Government headquarters and at the Women's Progressive League.

In contrast with the respectful hearing that Harriman has always received, the socialists have been stampeding and shouting and their speakers are quoted as condoning the action of the Auditorium rowdies and predicting that meetings such as that will be broken up again. Some of the speakers were quoted as saying that it would not be bad if a few heads were broken while meetings of this kind were being broken up.

A third meeting will be held at Sante Hall No. 1383 Sante street, where Lewis R. Williams, W. C. Gould, and J. W. Parry will be the speakers.

The fourth meeting will be held at Parish Hall, Colegrove, and C. J. Sullivan and Judge A. E. Merrill will speak.

The meeting called by the Good Government Organization at 1585 Sunset boulevard for Precinct No. 28 was held last night and over forty workers were present. The meeting was presided over by W. D. Gould, who was subsequently elected chairman. George J. Holmes was chosen treasurer, and D. R. Gardner and Robert O'Dell, secretaries. Twenty-seven vice-presidents were also elected. Plans were made by all the members present to subdivide the precinct into the block system and to establish a permanent organization to canvass the vote. At the last election Harriman received a majority of this precinct. The principal cause was the lack of organization of the Alexander workers, but the workers were determined to bring this precinct back into the Alexander column by a substantial majority.

The meeting called by the Good Government Organization at 1585 Sunset boulevard for Precinct No. 28 was held last night for the purpose of organizing an Alexander Club. The meeting was attended by about thirty-five voters of the precinct, and the following officers were elected: G. S. Hough, president; J. W. Stinson, secretary. A permanent organization was effected and preparations made for a thorough house-to-house canvass of the precinct.

A meeting of the workers of Precinct No. 159 was held at the residence of P. B. Heaverlin, No. 978 New Hampshire street, for the purpose of organizing an Alexander Club and discussing the plans for the canvass of the precinct. The following officers were elected: G. S. Hough, president; P. B. Heaverlin, secretary.

At the meeting held at the residence of Dr. Barton Dozier, No. 952 Bonnie Brae, for Precinct No. 151, for the purpose of organizing an Alexander Club, about forty workers were present, and W. J. Green, secretary.

A meeting of the workers of Precinct No. 159 was held at the residence of P. B. Heaverlin, No. 978 New Hampshire street, for the purpose of organizing an Alexander Club and discussing the plans for the canvass of the precinct. The following officers were elected: G. S. Hough, president; P. B. Heaverlin, secretary.

BAKERSFIELD. Nov. 17.—The body of an unidentified man, aged about 20 years, and evidently a working man, was found today in a gulch in the Temple oil field a short distance from the road leading from Devil's Den to McKittrick, dead from knife wounds presumably self-inflicted.

The man's clothing was all found in a pile some distance from his body, and it is apparent that he had undressed, built a fire of brush and then stabbed himself with a large pocket knife in each side of his breast and in the groin. Footprints showed that the man had run about in the brush after the fire and then had into the fire and received severe burns on his bare flesh. A five-dollar gold piece, two silver dollars and a dime were found in his clothing together with a silver watch and a memorandum book with a record of days worked and provisions bought, but no name. The inquest will be held tomorrow.

COMPLETES SURVEY. The San Joaquin Light and Power Company has completed the survey of the power transmission line from Bakersfield east to Edison, and thence south through the Weed Patch country, and is planning a second line a few miles west of the first one. These two lines will make power for pump irrigation available all over the Kern mess from Kern River west to the coast. The section is the same as the principal development in citrus culture in Kern county, and the planning of the two lines indicates the activity that is expected during the coming season in the sinking of new wells and planting of new orchards.

Electric power service was extended to Wasco in the northwestern part of the county some time ago, and a very great increase in the efficiency and economy of the Wasco colony water system is reported since the motors supplanted the gasoline engines. The pumps are kept running night and night at present, the irrigating ditches are all full, and everybody is getting an abundance of water. The colonists are preparing to put in a system of cement irrigation pipes, and a part of the material is now on hand. So much better results are being obtained from the water system than formerly that stock in the water association has more than doubled in value.

Electric power lines also have been extended to McFarland, a young town 20 miles south of Bakersfield, and service will begin there within a few days. The McFarland line will be extended northward to Pond siding on the Santa Fe, where the Standard Oil Company's pipe line pumping station is located.

McFarland and Pond, and still west and north of the latter place is a large area of fertile land which can be made productive through pump irrigation, and the water lift is small.

IMPROVING TRACKS. Work has been begun at last on the double-tracking of all the remaining single lines of the Bakersfield street car system. Delay in the delivery of the present car is in construction, but full time is promised from now on, and it is stated by the men in charge that the job will be completed in 100 days. Sixteen men are now preparing the streets for the laying of the rails and for the paving which is to follow.

The first street improved will be those connecting the business section of the city with the Southern Pacific depot in East Bakersfield. The street car traffic and the travel by team and auto are heaviest there, and it is desired to get the paving done before the latter winter rains begin.

BEN LEGGETT'S DEATH. Ben Leggett, superintendent of the G. R. Oil Company, died tonight from the effects of the wound he received yesterday when his automobile revolver fell from his pocket, struck the pavement and was discharged into his body. The bullet did not strike any vital organ, but entered his spine and followed the wall of the abdominal and thoracic cavities, lodging behind the second rib. It was removed easily, but the rupture of the tissue caused pneumonia and death was directly due to that cause. Leggett was about 44 years of age, and leaves a wife and step-son.

The accident occurred just as Leggett had arrived at the Lucey supply store on the city street, a block from the G. R. Oil property near Taion Canyon. As he came past the cemetery Leggett overtook a local undertaker returning with an empty hearse, and facetiously bantered him for a race. The undertaker, who maintains an undertaker's shop, had no automobile in operation than he was called to go with the latter vehicle and remove Leggett to the hospital.

CASA VERDUGO. CASA Verdugo, Nov. 17.—The Casa Verdugo Civic Club, a recently-organized institution for the study of civic and cultural problems, held its first formal meeting last night, at the residence of Mrs. J. P. Green, No. 1015 Fairview Avenue. About forty-five progressive residents of the district were present, the larger per cent of whom were women. About half the members were with civic affairs, and the new duties following their enfranchisement.

Mrs. Sidney Dell read a paper outlining the California ballot system and manner of voting.

Alexander Mitchell, addressed the meeting and gave his hearers valuable information regarding the method of casting and registering voters and the details of forming precincts.

An interesting feature of the evening was the registering of the first voter in this section, Miss Ethel Burdett Land, a Normal senior, who thus celebrated her twenty-first birthday.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of Good Government workers of Precinct No. 104 was held last night at South Spring Street, the resolutions endorsing the whole Good Government

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 17.—Smoke continues to drift over the mountains to the west today, indicating the presence of canyon fires in Los Angeles and Los Tules, next west of Topanga.

The smoke was observed for the first time yesterday afternoon and by mid-night the flashes of blaze could be seen biting the top of the range; but as the wind was stiff from the east, no fears were entertained that the fire would descend into Topanga.

The fire is about eight miles up the beach from here and there are neither valuable timber nor houses in the vicinity. The only damage is to the underbrush and the only fear is that the fire might climb up the mountain and drop down the east slope into Topanga and Garapatos.

Electric power service was extended to Wasco in the northwestern part of the county some time ago, and a very great increase in the efficiency and economy of the Wasco colony water system is reported since the motors supplanted the gasoline engines.

WANT ALL WIDOWS.

Chief of Police Barletto today received from the Bachelors' Club of Oatman, Ariz., a bid for the 250 Santa Monica widows who were brought into the city by the San Joaquin Light and Power Company to vote. The Oatman men guarantee certain ages, weights and previous conditions of servitude and pledge themselves to take the entire lot. Barletto declines to act in the matter. He says he is not engaged in politics, and has advised the widows to organize offensive and defensive and deal first-hand with the Oatman club and has advised them to form a Arizona and bachelorhood for Santa Monica widows and themselves.

COLOR LINE.

Additional color is being lent to the city campaign by the candidates whose names permit the use of loud colors. Goss is making his race for Mayor on a plain, simple, grainy Brown is using the family coat in his chase for a seat in the Council from the Second Ward, and White is relying upon the purity of his color name for re-election as a member of Board of Education. Mr. Black failed to make his bid, and Mr. Blew declared at the outset that he had no political ambitions.

VOTE TREBLLED.

Seaside politicians received a sudden shock yesterday when they learned that the Santa Monica vote had almost trebled in two years. At the last city election something less than 1500 votes were cast during an exciting contest, and today the local voting precincts show an aggregate of over 4700. Of this number all but thirty-eight will be from the new city officers December 5. These thirty-eight are in the school district, not within the city. The aggregation by precincts is as follows:
